✓ Session 1: Avoiding Digital Darwinism

22-06-08

12:00 p.m.-1:00 p.m. ET

Eugene Roman
MBA, CPA
Design AI Ltd.

Digital Darwinism is the evolution of consumer behavior when society and technology evolve faster than an organization’s ability to adapt. The point of natural selection is that some organizations will thrive, some will falter and a number will fail to adapt.

Eugene will walk through the core areas to work on for boards and senior leaders alike. They include cyber protection, applied digital transformation, useful innovation and the new world of post covid work.

✓ Session 4: Reworking Work

22-06-09

11:45 a.m.-12:45 p.m. ET

Andrew Au
Global Thought Leader
on Digital Transformation and Culture Change

Work as we know it has changed — permanently. Workflows are no longer confined to location, teams are not determined by geographics, businesses are not defined by industries.

In this session, Andrew Au provides a real-time glimpse into how leading global organizations are redefining their future of work strategies, including:

- Hybrid culture building practices
- Employee skilling programs
- Automation, robotics, and AI integration
- Redesigned employee feedback loops
- Diversity, equity, and inclusion strategies

As a digital transformation leader, Au is on the frontline of today's evolving workplace. Just as the nature of work is evolving rapidly, so does this session.

Break

22-06-09

12:45 p.m.-1:00 p.m. ET

✓ Session 5: Addressing The Rise of Psychological Claims – Implications for Workers' Compensation

22-06-09

1:00 p.m.-2:00 p.m. ET

Dr. Peter Farvolden
PhD, C Psych
Founder, Clinical Director
CBT Associates

Psychological injuries are on the rise and insurers need to develop innovative ways to address mental health claims. Mental health claim management and care should be as data driven as the technology that destroys mental health. The purpose of this session is to encourage strategic discussions about the use of emerging technology to improve prevention and wellness, service models for claims adjudication and management, recovery, return to work and case resolution. We will consider the questions that boards and senior leaders should ask about using specific technologies to improve prevention and recovery from psychological injuries.

22-06-09

2:00 p.m.-2:15 p.m. ET

✓ Session 6: The Top 3 Post-COVID Cultural Shifts Organizations are Facing

2:15 p.m.-3:15 p.m. ET

Dr. Debra L. Brown
D. Min., M.Div., Pro.
Dir
President & CEO
Governance Solutions
Inc.

If you're not leading your culture, your culture is leading you! There are significant cultural shifts taking place today that will continue to impact your boardroom, C-Suite, and workplace for some time to come – not to mention the impacts to homes, families, cities, nations, and your world. You can either lead through this inevitable change proactively, or you can let the culture lead and overcome you.

✓ Closing Remarks and Wrap up
